

No matter where you travel . . .
your credit union
may be just around the corner.

- Correspondent Credit Union Program
- A Service of the Information Technologies Credit Union Association and
Your Credit Union

When you're traveling and need money, your credit union may be just around the corner.

That's right. You have access to your funds in 38 states and the District of Columbia at almost 700 credit union offices and ATMs, because we're part of a convenient network of credit unions that makes up the Information Technologies Credit Union Association's Correspondent Credit Union Program.

When you're out of town and need funds, just visit the nearest credit union office listed in this brochure. Request a share withdrawal or loan advance of at least $50 from your credit union account. (Requests are subject to telephone approval and/or availability of open-end credit at your home credit union. There may be a service charge of up to $5 at the discretion of the issuing credit union.) The issuing credit union will check your identification and other information for verification purposes. A check will be prepared on the spot. And, in a matter of minutes, you'll have the money you need.

Or, if you prefer, use one of the credit union ATMs indicated by a ★ in this brochure. None of these credit unions will impose a surcharge on your transaction.

Please remember to take along these important items when you travel: your home credit union account number(s); identification such as a driver's license; your home credit union's office hours; and, of course, this brochure.

Isn't it nice to know you've got connections for money at hundreds of credit union offices and ATMs coast to coast?
